BEST PRACTICE

Title of the Practice:

Night Studies

Objective of the practice:

- To provide enhanced academic performance.
- To improvement for students results for studding extra night studies in silent zone
- To promotion of self-directed learning
- To improve self-study and analysis.

The context:

Students-centric activities are crucial for the overall development of the students. These activities play an important part in the moral and ethical ideals among the students. Slow learners struggle to keep up in class because their learning pace is poor.

Our teacher will stay on the college campus at night for study supervision and security for every student. Teachers should stay on the college campus one by one at night to watch all students in each subject in a silent zone.

The Practice:

Night study provides a book bank for advanced learners and needy students on the college campus. Provide the student with a digital resource for reference. To resolve the obstacles that all students have in each topic, increase their deep understanding, and, ultimately, improve the results. Students gained more grades as a result of their night studies. The success percentage of enhanced quality is validated by the comments received from students over the years. Use an inventive strategy for night studying to prevent boredom and sleepiness. Encourage peer learning among students. All teachers stay one by one during night studies to ensure continual evaluation of students.

Night study in college may be a productive and concentrated time for students. With fewer interruptions and a quieter setting, students can focus on their studies and absorb complicated subjects. Whether at the library or a study group, the night creates a peaceful environment that promotes learning and academic achievement.

Evidence of success:

The student can excel in exams, as seen by their results. Their dread of the subject is replaced with a curiosity in each subject. Their scores consistently show their ability and the success of the night study program.

The student's hard work and dedication to their studies are evident in their consistent high scores. The night study program has improved their academic performance and also sparked a newfound interest in learning.

Problem Encountered and Resources Requirement:

Challenging issue for ladies staff due to night study time was 8 to 11 PM
